

A competitive media is essential to the democratic process and to providing citizens with balanced coverage of issues from multiple perspectives. Lifting current FCC regulations would be an egregious mistake.